At the moment, the extent of the disease's encroachment in this area has not been determined, nor the manner of its transference here. But there is agreement among the experts that it is a difficult and costly affliction to overcome, and the battle could take years. While it remains here, the Island must undergo a form of quarantine, with inconvenience and hardship of perhaps crippling effects on many of the agricultural producers of the area.

Garden produce of many kinds will be barred from shipment to the mainland, both Canada and the United States, and numerous other items will be suspect. WHILE EFFORTS OF THE Commonwealth Prime Ministers Conference to mediate in the Viet Nam conflict took all the headlines last week, reports from London Indicate that the meeting did get down to work towards the end on matters which are really more germane to this kind of gathering.

The necessity for achieving a Viet Nam settlement cannot be under-rated, of course, but in the leadership provided by British Prime Minister Harold Wilson in forming the Commonwealth peace mission there was a suspicion of cynicism that cannot be ignored. The fact is that Mr. Wilson very badly needed a showpiece with which to impress on a very large section of his own Labor Party that he was not slavishly following the United States line on Viet Nam. Comment in the London press runs toward the view that the peace mission plan was not put forward so much because Mr. Wilson had hopes for its success as because he needed to placate the left-wing section of his party. In any case, it has now been shelved-perhaps permanently.

Development of permanent machinery to co-ordinate. Commonwealth trade will top the agenda at this gathering.

The Commonwealth nations also will have to consider much more deeply the matter of co-ordinating aid and development plans in the under-developed member nations since this is a subject which is probably only second to trade-in many ways it is co-existent with tradeas a factor in holding the Commonwealth together.

While it may seem crassly commercial to concentrate more attention on trade and development than on plans for promoting peace in Viet Nam, the hard fact is that these are the "bread and butter" of Commonwealth conferences-authority by Mr. Jean Lesage indicates that the Canadian version of the Romė - Berlin axis (which, in our case, Quebec City) is operating with its usual ruthless efficiency. It was a principle of the original axis that one the other party, with the support of its ally, was always taking the lead in some challenge to the status Western quo, thus keeping Europe in a perpetu uproar. Appeals for "justice" based on half or quarter-truths were backed by threats and blackmail; and in the process huge concessions were extracted from the confused democracies. In the case of offshore rights, Mr. Bennett is the leading partner. Having agreed to a reference to the Supreme Court of Canada, he now bitterly denounces the federal government for pursuing this course and demands that this issue be settled by political negotiations at a conference with the provinces. This is the classic strategy.

At Partner's Side

Mr. Lesage has wasted little time in arraying himself in shining armour on the side of his partner. Quebec has the right to intervene in the Supreme Court case affecting British Columbia; indeed, Ottawa has sought provincial co-operation in obtaining a judicial clarification. But Mr. Lesage, incensed by the latest issue federal exploratory permit in the gulf of St. Lawrence, has now joined Bennett in the demand that the reference be withdrawn.

The issue is starkly clear. Ottawa believes that a case involving so many complexities should be decided by the impartial justices of the Supreme Court. This is what happened in the United States. There the judges decided in 1947 in favor of the federal government and, although Congress in the days of the Eisenhower administration yielded its miles from shore to the coastal states, federal authority beyond that limit was reasserted by the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act.

This latter point is important because there is now international recognition of Canada's right to exploit the seabed resources at any distance off our shores flimited only by similar rights of other What has to be decided is countries): whether this right belongs to the federal or to the provincial authority.

Mr. Bennett and Mr. Lesage are opposed to an impartial judicial settlement. They prefer a federal-provincial conference in which it may be possible to array the majority, or at least the most powerful, of the provinces against Ottawa. There are always many issues between the two levels of government and the premiers undoubtedly foresee the possibility of package deals forced upon the federal government by backstage coalitions built on the principle of "you scratch my back, I'll scratch In judicial proceedings, they might win or lose but from a political confrontation they are almost bound to win concessions even if they fail to achieve the totality of their demands.

What the Canadian axis wants is a Munich and one reads without surprise that Mr. Lesage is ready to come to the conference with a map of the gulf indicating the intended division of pro-

Old Axis Technique

It was characteristic of the European axis that it frequently directed its attacks at persons in the opposing camp. There would be intimations that, if a certain minister was removed, the possibility of mproved relations would emerge. This tactic sometimes achieved success but the sequel was never an accommodation; merely stiffer demands.

There is room for suspicion that Messrs. Bennett and Lesage are trying their hands at the same game. With jurisdiction in dispute, the federal governseveral years been issuing exploration permits. Latterly, provincial and sometimes permits have overlapped. (This is one reason why Ottawa has been anxious to secure a court decision as soon as possible). There is no significance to the timing of the latest federal administrative decision.

There have been other attacks on Mr. Laing and their motivation is obvious He is a strong and generally respected minister. He has never sought quarrels with the provinces but has consistently refused to sacrifice his principles to appease provincial governments. He may thus appear an obstacle to the attainment of various goals sought by the premiers. They would much prefer to deal with flabby minister who could be pressured into buying peace at any price. Mr. Laing, characteristically, has declined to be drawn into arguments with Mr. Lesage. But with a single, non-provocative, observation he has exposed the emptiness of one of the Quebec threats. Mr. Lesage has vowed that he will seek an injunction against the company (Pan American Petroleum Corporation of Calgary) to prevent it from using its per mit and that the federal government will be named as co-respondent.

On this Mr. Laing has commented "I think his indication that he proposed to seek redress in the courts she that he too recognizes that this matter settlement.

Precisely, Mr. Lesage and Mr. Bennett are beside themselves with indignation because the federal government is seek ing a judicial decision. But in his anxiety to put Ottawa in its place Mr. Lesage authority The political play is, obviously, much more serious. In one breath Mr. Lesage denies that there is any "ganging up" against Ottawa and in the next claims the support of the other provinces. He threatens to bring the matter up at the federal-provincial conference next month. He describes his efforts, by letter and tele-phone, to induce Mr. Pearson to withdraw the reference. He appeals to an alleged Nova Scotian precedent but despite the threat against Pan-American is plainly unwilling to have law and pre-cedents examined by the Supreme Court. This is plainly a pressure campaign directed generally at the federal government and specifically at one minister.

...Mr. Lesage may, however, have been too obvious. The campaign is now in the open: the objective is clear; any gesture appeasement would be self-advertising. It may be difficult to persuade Canadians generally that they should have more confidence in politicians than in the judges of the Supreme Court. This in reality is what Messrs. Bennett and Lesage are saying and the fact should be well understood in the country.

PRIME MINISTER WILSON'S promvised initiative for expanding the Commonwealth ference Thursday with all the force of a mouse ramming a brick wall. According to Canadian sources the British leader only trade proposal was a vague suggestion that Commonbe allowed to tag along to a scheduled lth finance mi isters in Jamaica next September. The idea, it seems, is that the trade ministers themselves might then find a way making good on Mr. Wilson's promise. Conference rules prevented the Canadian delegation from reporting the reaction of other members to the British proposal. But it is safe to conclude that the entire conference, including the Cadians, was relieved to learn that Mr. Wilson was not going to put any one on for expanding trade. The Canadian view seemed to be that even bringing the Commonwealth trade nisters together could prove ticklish. Although the conference agreed in principle with the idea, it has to be remembered that any special Commonwealth trade arrangement—or even the attempt to start one ran the risk of undermin the all-important general Agreement on

GATT Complications

It was explained that GATT itself is experiencing rough weather. The only circumstances under which Canada would approve a Commonwealth trade initiative would be if GATT were to break down. In the meantime, in the Canadian view, it was important that nothing be done to compromise the future of larger frading bodies.

Mr. Wilson's suggestion was placed before the conference as part of a three-point program aimd at strengthening Commonwealth links. He also asked the of Commonwealth planning organizations perhaps co-ordinating various nationa development programs.

Once again, the conference agreed in

But the Australian prime minister, Sir Robert Menzies, echoed a Canadian reservation when he said it is difficult for some national governments to attend such meetings without first entering into careful consultation with

for reactivating a now-defunct Common wealth body charged with exchanging and co-ordinating information regarding aircraft development. Here again, the Canadian view was that there was already a natural exchange of important information in this field.

Mr. Wilson's ideas were not even mentioned in London's evening press. To every one at the conference the big news was still the ill-starred Viet Nam peace mission proposal.

Progress in the Press Gallery

At last they're caving in, giving way to progress and the demands of the new age. Of ourse, they've held out the longest. The members of the Commons approved sweeping reforms of their own activities weeks ago. The senators have accepted the rule of retirement after the age of 75 years is reached.

The parliamentary press gallery acceded to the claims of modernity, at least partially, and acquiesced to the speaker's proposals.

The jammed corridor is to be cleared, the filing cabinets and the fondly-held debris of years will disappear. There will be a simple long room with desks, three-quarters of them

The gallery will never be the same and the next step is implicit in the situation. Most of the press, radio and TV men will find permanent offices off the Hill, perhaps together under one roof, more likely in separate buildings along the nearby business streets of Ottawa

It's fair to speak of the parliamentary, press gallery as an entity. It has a constitu-tion; meetings are held; decisions are debated, made and delayed. There are shared privileges provided by Parliament: paper supplies, messenger service, a few square feet of one's own store of soft drinks and other liquids and the regular provision of government publi tions, news releases and quick preliminary copies of the debates

Much of this will remain. Some subsidization will continue. But the old unity of holding down a complete working place is disap-

On the other hand, it is unfair to put a neralized label on the members of the press gallery. Running through from Blakely (Mont-real Gazette) to Zink (The Toronto Telegram) there is a variety of viewpoint and prejudice as rich as going from Ralph Cowan or Real Caouette to Eldon Woolliams.

Further, the continuity of the veterans such as Maurice Jeffries of the Windsor Star tends to obscure the effects of change, the recalls to home office, and the emergence of the radio and television men as obtrusive components of it all in the past four years.

A short time ago that veteran gallery man Peter Dempson of The Toronto Telegram wen home to the editorial sanctum. Experienced. Robert Needham of The London Free Press has had a similar recall.

Some idea of the scale of change can b seen in the gallery list of 1961. Of the 95 names, 50 have gone.

The list is much longer today, of course most of the additions coming from the new media, some from the beefing up of bureaus by the bigger dailies and chains.

It seems to me that this gallery change in working arrangements will hasten the trend to more specialization and interpretation, plus an even wider variety in shades of interpretation. A kind of redistribution has been going on.

Are Reds Always in Charge?

LONDON-President Lyndon Johnson gave serious concern to America's friends and rejoiced the hearts of her enemies by an address he gave recently at Baylor University, Texas.

The worst of the offending utterances occurred in the president's statement that "in today's world, with the enwars of national liberation the old distinction between 'civil war' and 'international has lost much of its meaning."

There is no quarrel with the point that he was making about the dangers of local wars escalating into larger The offence lies in his labelling, without qualifica-tion, national liberation wars as the property of the ene-mies of freedom.

This failure to qualify his statement makes it appear that the president is now on record as regarding all "national liberation wars" as hostile forces engaged on the side of the Communists.

There is no doubt that this is not quite what the president intends. For if he did, he committed hin self to the view that national liberation ments in South Africa, Southwest Africa, in Rhodesia and in the Portuguese terriBy COLIN LEGUM

The OAU leaders are greatly concerned with the president's statement, more especially since it has been fastened on to by the Communist countries to say to the national libera tion leaders: "There you are, now you have it straight from the horse's mouth—the Americans do not really take your struggle seriously, but dismiss you as enemies of the

Not So Hot In Pursuit Of Learning

in the Financial Post

A prominent Canadian with lot of university degrees says "the only person who degrees seriously today is the man who hasn't got one." He would agree with a dismal piece by a U.S. scholar, Prof. Andrew Hacker of Cornell.

According to Hacker, the idea of a university as a fairly small community of scholars. where the learned teach the hungry for learning, has van-ished from American campuses and will not come back our time anyway,

All U.S. universities, he ays, are either already too big or trying hard to become too big as fast as possible. The professors care little for teaching. They prefer re-"publication." travel search, and lucrative outside assignments. Their tape-recorded lectures boom out to bored crowds in huge auditoriums.

The average student, who would not know a real professor if he met one, is un-concerned, Hacker claims. He is at a university for social or business reasons, not to learn anything except may be how to hold his liquor and play bridge. the price of mass culture, Hacker says lightly, but it is a stiff price for the community to pay. It means that the pass arts course and BA, the branch of so-called higher learning Hacker is referring to, has become mere scalus symbol and, therefore, a fetish. Supposed by many to be an indispersable starter for success or happiness, it is no such thing. The man who respects it, not having one himself, often wishes he had attended a university when he young; and his wish may be reasonable. But the universities of 40, 30 and even 20 years ago were quite unlike mass production plants where too many of the inmates are wasting both their own time and such time as the professors can spare for instructing them.

public in the north and weak newly-independent republics in the south torn by internal dissensions.

Bolivar's call for a first inter-American conference did not succeed in achieving a solid community of natio Yet the fact that the meeting even took place, in Panama in 1890, represented a significant step toward co-operation.

During the U.S. Civil War. the dangers of an exposed and divided hemisphere were made vividly clear. Spain's rule had returned to Santo Domingo; a European monarchy was imposed on Mexico by Napoleon III: Spain and Chincha Islands, and in economic affairs Europe grew increasingly aggressive.

Many Proposals

In the 1880's a number of roposals were offered in the U.S. Congress suggesting the establishment of an inter-American association.

It was against this background that U.S. Secretary of State James G. Blaine convoked the first constituent assembly of the inter-American system at Washington, in 1889. which carried over into the next year.

The system has evolved since into a "let's-not-panic, let's - have - consensus" technique, which is the system's way of life.

But the 1965 Dominioan Republic crisis brought some new harsh words fof the system. OAS Assistant Secretary General William Sanders, the United States, has faced critics by stating that "as w bend every effort to put an end to the raging civil war and to care for the most urgent needs we must not be surprised if we are faced with occasional criticisms. The regional organization provides a natural target, a convenient scapegoat for the unthinking impatience of those who feel that international institutions should furnish instant solutions to internal problems, whatever their magnitude

In recalling that the inter-American system has been called to face other crises in the past Sanders added: "Little more than a year ago, moned to mediate in the Panamanian situation and the system acquitted itself so well as to cause President Johnson to speak of the 'unmatched efficiency of the inter-Ameri can system'."

Sanders referred to the OAS mediation which stopped blood-shed along the U.S. Canal Zone border in Panama early in 1964 and paved the way for both countries to restore diploma-

In 1960, the inter-American system was also called to act in a delicate matter. Gen. Rafael Trujillo, dictator of the Dominican Republic for more than 30 years, launched a campaign of terrorism in Venezuela against the regime of President Romulo Betancourt.

Stiff Sanctions

Inter-American collective action slapped stiff sanctions on Trujillo's government 'and halted his adventures beyond his country's borders.

Next, the American nations excluded Fidel Castro's Cuba from participating in the OAS because Marxism was ruled incompatible with inter-American goals. Later, in October the American nations soviet guided stand against based in Cuba—a stand which greatly strengthened U.S. etforts to force their removal.

Political Enemy Number One in an area remarkable for its many feuds and rivalries? minorities-both ethnic and religious -and virtually no xeno The question of Iran's profoundly uneasy relations with the Arabs is very much of a live issue in Teheran. It is the only major flaw in an otherwise successful and harmonious foreign policy. With the Soviet Union, her formidable northern neighbor, Iran's relations have been steadily improving ever since she undertook in 1962 not to allow American missile bases on her territory.

These developments have not impaired Iran's close ties with her two major Western allies, Britain and the United States; nor have they prevented the steady strengthening of her links with her CENTO allies to east and west. Pakistan and Turkey Iran's friendships are thus far from exclusive.

> What has all this to do with present-day Arab-Iranian re-lations? Quite simply, I think, that memories of the Arab-conquest, as well as tension etween Shiis and Sunnis, have bred in Iran an active allergy to any new concentration of Arab power.

Nasser Group

Nasser symbolizes such egrouping of Arab forces. He also a militant republican and anti-monarchist. He is, therefore, identified as an enemy. Seen through Iranian eyes, if the Arabs were ever to unite they could control much that is vital for Iran.

Iran's main trading port of Khoramshah as well as the Adadan oil terminal lie in the Shatt al-Arab at the head of the Persian Gulf. Navigation in the Shatt depends on Iraqi pilots. Iran has, therefore, watched with mounting appre-hension the extension of Nasser's influence in Iraq.

Iranian fears are centred not only in the gulf but also on the rich province of Khuzistan, lying at the head of the gulf hard up against the Iraqi frontier. It contains Iran's principal oil fields as well as vast tracts of arable land

But Arab propagandists claim the province as Arab terrtory. They call it Arab-Periodic efforts are made to rouse the Arab tribes in this area against the Iranian government. A Khuzistan 'liberation committee' in Baghdad receives training in sabotage. There is even a "flag" for Khuzistan. Neither the Arabs nor Iran can hope to be masters in the gulf. Each must recognize the other's legitimate rights and accommodate himself to the other's interests.

But this happy situation is not yet in sight. Instead, Iranian nervousness about the future of the gulf has led her to make large-scale military preparations. Some Iranian nationalists may even be heard to argue that military intervention in the gulf may be necessary to protect Iran's interests there. In any event, Iran will this year spend some $300 million on her armed forces and security.

Must Change With Times, Kierans Says

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec Revenue Minister Eric Kierans said today Canada's financial institutions should be more competitive and disclose more information to investors.

"It does not seem to me that our financial institutions and structures have adapted them-selves to the changed realities of a 1965 economy operating at a $50,000,000,000 gross national product level," he told a Cana-dian Manufacturers' Association luncheon.

He said the eventual prospects of financial independence and continuous growth depend on the revival of savings.

Advantages which could be gained by the increase in acimulation caused by the Queec pension plan, he said, would be lost if there were not a corresponding improve-ment in the functioning of the capital markets."

he said he agrees with the Porter royal commission on banking and finance which sug-gested that the investment in-dustry "naw is large enough to allow more impersonal and competitive forces to work."

Mr. Kierans said the traditional underwriters came last when Hydro Quebec recently esked for competitive tenders on a $50,000,000 offering.

"The significance of this event has not escaped the at-tention of my colleagues and many of us believe that the un-derlying vigor and strength of the Canadian financial commu-nity will support three or more competitive syndicates,"

He said the Quebec pension fund is a potential heavy buyer or stocks listed on the Montreal exchanges so is interested in seeing implementation of Porter commission recommendations that the protection afforded investors be improved.

"In particular, stundards of disclosure by corporations must be improved and complete in-formaton on trading by company directors should be pro-vided."

Bankruptcy Frauds Hit

STE. ADELE; Que. (CP) president of the Canadian Construction Association said today changes in the federal Bankruptcy Act are needed to "inhibit fradulent bankruptcles and the present relative case with the present relative ease with which bankrupts can re-enter business." Neville R. Williams of Winnipeg told the CCA's annual summer meeting that bankruptcies in the construction industry have risen to record levels and it is apparent "that a good many of these were premeditated."

The cost of such bankruptices to creditor firms in the industry was heavy, contributing towards other bankruptcies or losses.

Mr. Williams also cited other improvements needed to achieve greater stability in the construc-tion industry. These included improved methods of making progress payments on large projects and the promotion of prequalification procedures, whereby bidders have to prove their capacity and ed before being allowed to bid on jobs.

Customs Tariff Hearing Planned

OTTAWA (CP) - The tariff board will open hearings Nov. 15 into proposals to widen the scope of a customs tariff item covering machinery and equip-ment for handling and market-ing fresh fruit or fresh vegeta-bles

The machinery now is allowed into Canada duty free.

Finance Minister Gordon wrote the treasury board June 9 directing it to hold hearings and make recommendations on Item No. 409E 2.

"It has been suggested that item 409E 2 be broadened to include other machinery and equipment used in conjunction with the apparatus now pro-vided for under that item," he

The item covers combination bagging or boxing and weighing machines, and grading, crating, washing and diping machines for fresh fruits and vegetables. It also covers machines for top-ping, bunching or tying cut flowvegetables and stock, as well as egg graders and egg cleaners.

The board said parties interested in the hearing should file briefs by Oct. 6.

And Calgary publisher Max Bell, Vancouver oil executive Frank McMahon and American singer Bing Crosby were in happy mood because their choice of horseflesh had come through nobly for them

Meadow Court, the 11-to-10 betting favorite, won $166,900 first-prize money by covering the rain-soggy 1½-mile course in two minutes, 46 4-5 seconds, beating runner-up Convamore by two lengths. Wedding Present was third in the field of 21

British racing writers today praised Meadow Court, which earlier had placed second to France's Sea Bird II in the Derby

Tim Fitzgeorge-Parkers, in the London Daily Mail, put it

"Meadow Court must be hailed at British horse of the year and the likely winner if he clashes with Reliance II in the St. Leger at Doncaster on Sept. 8."

Reliance won the Grand Prix de Paris Sunday

Colt Purchased by Bell for $9,450

Paddy Prendergast, Irish trainer of Meadow Court, said colt's next race will be King George VI and Queen Elizabeth Stakes at Ascot in mid-july. A decision about the St. Leger e made after the Ascot race.

Bell, the man who originally spotted Meadow Court as a likely champion, said the colt will be entered in the Washington, D.C., International, scheduled for Nov. 11 at Laurel, Md. Bell became owner when Meadow Court was a yearling trainer Prendergast paying out 3,000 guineas ($9,450) of Bell's

Saturday morning it was made known for the first time that Bell is not sole owner. A three-way partnership—of Bell, McMahon and Crosby—was registered with the Irish Turf Club. The press and public jumped at once to the conclusion that the broadening of the ownership to include these two old friends of Bell's had taken place just before the race, but later remarks by Crosby seemed to indicate otherwise.

Bing appeared on a British television program Sunday night and interrupted anchor man Eamonn Andrews when the latter was telling the audience that the singer had bought his interest Friday evening.

"No," said Bing, "I had the ownership since he was a two-

"Really?" said Andrews. "I thought it only happened Fri-"No," said Bing. "That was an error."

Owners Had Gentleman's Agreement

Bell, McMahon and Crosby all expressed elation about the fine showing of Meadow Court in the Irish Derby, on which the second Irish hospital sweepstakes of 1965 was based.

Bell, in an interview after the race, told about the sharing of ownership which had caught the racing world by surprise.
"Frank McMahon is a business associate of mine and Bing Crosby is a friend I've always wanted to bring back into racing as an owner," Bell said.

When Bing sold his American string some years ago, I mised him that if every I had a horse likely to do well would let him in on a share.

"Last year I told him about this promising two-year-old I had in Ireland and Bing expressed the wish to buy a share. The arrangement was finalized less than 24 hours before the

In the light of Crosby's later TV statement, it is possible a gentlemen's agreement to share the ownership existed for some months before being made formal.

Speculation was rife as to how much Crosby and McMahon for their shares. Guesses ranged as high as £40,000

Crosby, who described the price as "top secret," did say that he got his money back Saturday—and more, Since his one-third of the purse was $55,650 or less (the jockey's 10 per cent and certain other expenses presumably would be deducted), Bing had completed a profitable deal.

After his Saturday victory, Meadow Court's value soared to an estimated £200,000 ($600,000) or more. And if he beats the four-year-olds at Ascot, the colt's value will be at least £300,000 ($900,000), in addition to £30,000 in Ascot winnings.

LAS VEGAS - Two British Columbians were named here Sunday to fill key positions the 1966 National Association of Lefthanded Golfers' Association executive.

Destined to guide next year's NALG tournament in Victoria are Willard Gilmour of Vancouver and Milt Dow of Victoria. Gilmour was elected president, succeeding Vince Cortes of Las Vegas. Dow was named tournament chairman for the 1966 southpaw session, to be played at the Colwood and Up-Election of officers and a celebritylefty tournament Sunday served as a prelude to this year's tournament, scheduled to get under way here Tuesday.

Topping the celebrity-lefty tournament was a four-man team headed by movie actor Cameron Mitchell. The Saskatoon-born actor, playing to an 18 handicap, teamed up with American southpaws Bob Harris, Norm White and Howard Walrath for a 54, 18 under par at the tricky Dunes course.

Dow, playing with entertainer Bobby Malone, Eugene Dwyer and Harris Cottle, came in for a share of runner-up honors. They re one of four quartets to tie for second with 56 and won out on a "countback."

a direct effect on the beauty of your back. If your posture is good you are much less likely to have lines on the back of your neck, round shoulders or a dowager's hump.

However, the back often is reated like a black sheep when ompared to the care and atention which the face and neck get. The middle of the back equently is marred by black-eads and pimples. This is due to the fact that this area is alnost impossible to reach for adequate cleansing without ong-handled bath brush.

Also, the nose, chin and the middle of the back are all spots which are oilier than other portions of the body. Therefore they need more soap and wa-Either ask some kind soul wash your back for you or use a long-handled bath bru and do a good job yourself. After careful toweling a drying antiseptic lotion is helpful.

Many teen-agers, and grown ips for that matter, who are parassed by acne find that the condition improves during the true of pimples on the back. This is no doubt due in part to the drying effect of the sun. The skin is not so oily. You can help rid yourself of these if you will treat your back to regular unning. Do not be extreme and ninutes a day will be fine.

Also treat your back in real make-up jobs. When it is to be in full view, which it is much of the summer, use the same base and powder you apply to your face. If you are going swimming use one of the water proform of products.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JIM JACOBY

Contrary to popular belief, the expert does not always get the most out of the cards. In fact there are many occasions when an expert will go out of his way to insure his contract and wind up with fewer tricks than with fewer tricks than the player who has not ond trick with his ace of diamonds. player has learned to try to drop a queen when he holds nine cards in a suit and if this were done he would make 12 tricks instead of 11. The expert would also have made 12 tricks had he been in a slam contract, but experts have an utter horror of going down when they have a cinch play for the contract and expert South had no regrets about his safety How would expert South have played the hand in a duplicate game?

We don't know for sure. The only thing we do know is that he would have really studied the hand and decided whether or not to take the best percentage play for 12 tricks or to play safe for his contract. Overtricks are ast important in duplicate. They mean little in rubber

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Jack Paar's swan song could have been a sickening ffair but it wasn't.

Paar, on his final show for NBC-TV, did hang some repe but this was to be expected from a performer who has been in the public eye since the days of the old Tonight Show. With only his German sheppherd og for company, Paar went it alone as he introduced film clips showing some of the high and low spots of his last three years on TV.

These clips proved to be outstand-ing pieces of show business with par-ticularly funny bits from Jonathan Winters and Beatrice Lillie.

This much has to be said about the controversial Paar. A person may not have agreed with his show business tactics or, for that matter, his method of presentation but he did get results whether pro or con. In an industry which is slowly dying through lack of imagination, he was daring ough to be a bit different.

Who else would have had nerve enough to show those horribly amateurish home movies of his travels to different parts of the world?

Who else would have had nerve enough to walk out on a powerful network and then tackle the press for their criticism of his actions?

He did. So he was a temperamental figure at tin but this can be forgotten when one realizes that over the years he maintained a steady level of entertain-

TID BITS: CBS-TV has plans in the works to present a one-hour tribute to the late Stan Laurel, of Laurel and Hardy screen fame. Dick Van Dyke will star and emceewith Lucille Ball and Phil Silvers tentatively set as costars. There is also strong possibility that Jerry Lewis, Bob Hope and Debbie Reynolds will appear, with proceeds going to the Motion Picture Relief Fund.

Walter Cronkite has left on a three-week assignment to South Viet Nam and Japan, with his reports appearing on his regular CBS-TV evening news program This half-hour, by the way, has NBC-TV brass worried since it is climbing even with the highly-acclaimed, award-winning Huntley-Brinkley Report.

Jean Arthur, who recently made a comeback in an episode of Gunsmoke, will be the star of a projected episode of Gunsmoke, will be the star of a projected half-hour comedy series, "Mother's Word Is Law."

Poor Taste In Water To Remain

NORTH COWICHAN : Somenos residents will have to put up with "poor tasting water" for at least another six months.

Saturday they turned down a bylaw proposal to pipe water from Duncan.

This morning, municipal clerk A. Vandecasteyen said an identical bylaw could not be put to the vote again for another six-months.

The present supply from somenos Lake is chlorinated but not filtered.

Works supervisor Perry Ross has developed a simple gravel filter scheme which council will likely consider at its next meeting, July 7.

NEEDED 60%

The $135,000 bylaw was turned down 107 votes to 72 ties from residents in the VLA subdivision and the established rural area.

VLA residents favored the bylaw 29 votes to 6 but the other vote was 78 to 66.

Cost to the individual owners was to be $10 a month plus $100 connection fee. North Cowichan was to pay the city 22 cents per 100 cubic Reeve Donald Morton said the situation might change if the bylaw is put to the vote again soon.

About 100 residents did not vote Saturday

Investors traditionally employ gold stocks as a hedge in a declining ern oils each declined, with hefty losses going to major issues. Volume, however, was light, as it has been throughout the current decline. Much of this can be traced to a lack of interest in speculative issues, although volume in the penny issues appeared to pick up a little this week. The market's drop was predicted by a score of seasoned securities analysts late last year. At that time they said lower prices could be expected for the latter half of 1965 after strong gains earlier in the year.

So far, they've been right. But the underlying note of caution that runs throughout all analysts' comments on the future direction of the stock market is strong

Irish Winner Meadow Court Horse-of-Year

aires from North America, was being hailed today as British three-year-old of the year after winning the Irish Derby here

And Calgary publisher Max Bell, Vancouver oil executive Frank McMahon and American singer Bing Crosby were in happy mood because their choice of horseflesh had come through nobly for them.

Meadow Court, the 11-to-10 betting favorite, won $166,900 first-prize money by covering the rain-soggy 1½-mile course in two minutes, 46 4-5 seconds, beating runner-up Convamore by two lengths. Wedding Present was third in the field of 21 three-year-olds.

British racing writers today praised Meadow Court, which earlier had placed second to France's Sea Bird II in the Derby

"Meadow Court must be hailed at British horse of the year and the likely winner if he clashes with Reliance II in the St. Leger at Doncaster on Sept. 8." Reliance won the Grand Prix de Paris Sunday.

Colt Purchased by Bell for $9,450

Paddy Prendergast, Irish trainer of Meadow Court, said the colt's next race will be King George VI and Queen Elizabeth Stakes at Ascot in mid-july. A decision about the St. Leger will be made after the Ascot race,

Bell, the man who originally spotted Meadow Court as likely champion, said the colt will be entered in the Washing ton, D.C., International, scheduled for Nov. 11 at Laurel, Md. Bell became owner when Meadow Court was a yearling, trainer Prendergast paying out 3,000 guineas ($9,450) of Bell's

Saturday morning it was made known for the first time that Bell is not sole owner. A three-way partnership-of Bell, McMahon and Crosby-was registered with the Irish Turf Club. The press and public jumped at once to the conclusion that the broadening of the ownership to include these two old friends of Bell's had taken place just before the race, but later remarks by Crosby seemed to indicate otherwise.

Bing appeared on a British television program Sunday night and interrupted anchor man Eamonn Andrews when the latter was telling the audience that the singer had bought his interest Friday evening

"No," said Bing. "That was an error."

Owners Had Gentleman's Agreement

Bell, McMahon and Crosby all expressed elation about the fine showing of Meadow Court in the Irish Derby, on which the second Irish hospital sweepstakes of 1965 was based.

Bell, in an interview after the race, told about the sharing of ownership which had caught the racing world by surprise.

"Frank McMahon is a business associate of mine and Bing Crosby is a friend I've always wanted to bring back into racing as an owner," Bell said. "When Bing sold his American string some years ago, I nised him that if every I had a horse likely to do well would let him in on a share 'Last year I told him about this promising two year-old I had in Ireland and Bing expressed the wish to buy a share. The arrangement was finalized less than 24 hours before the

In the light of Crosby's later TV statement, it is possible a gentlemen's agreement to share the ownership existed for some months before being made formal.

Speculation was rife as to how much Crosby and McMah paid for their shares. Guesses ranged as high as £40,000

Crosby, who described the price as "top secret," did say that he got his money back Saturday—and more. Since his one-third of the purse was $55,650 or less (the jockey's 10 per cent and certain other expenses presumably would be deducted), Bing had completed a profitable deal.

After his Saturday victory, Meadow Court's value soared to an estimated £200,000 ($600,000) or more, And if he beats the £300:000 ($900,000), in addition to £30,000 in Ascot winnings on a Saanich farm has most serious implications to farming throughout Vancouver Island.

At the moment, the extent of the disease's encroachment in this area has not been determined, nor the manner of its transference here. But there is agreement among the experts that it is a difficult and costly affliction to overcome, and the battle could take years. While it remains here, the Island must undergo a form of quarantine, with inconvenience and hardship of perhaps crippling effects on many of the agricultural producers of the area.

Garden produce of many kinds. will be barred from shipment to the mainland, both Canada and the United States, and numerous other items will be suspect. If the United States should decide to take more drastic forms of protection in the way of chemical fumigation of cars, there could be a deterrent to tourist travel by American visitors.

Certainly, this is a matter in which speed is of the greatest im- paign is called for.

THE RECENTLY DISCOVERED portance. The farmers were justified infestation of golden nematode in calling for a crash program to analyze, delineate and stamp out the nematode infestation, and provincial government estimates of a year merely to determine the extent of the incidence of the disease have needed second thoughts. The situation demands an all-out effort, for prolonged delay in applying treatment could greatly increase the eventual costs. The federal government's decision to speed up the program is therefore welcome.

> It is imperative, of course, that the strictest protection be afforded to the mainland. The spread of such a disease throughout the province could make the current orchard disaster in the Okanagan seem small in comparison. And the cure for the nematode worm may present its own problems, even when successful, for the affected soils.

> Unless the disease is found to be of very limited local occurrence we shall be faced with a problem that can affect all Vancouver Islanders in one way or another. A major cam-

WHILE EFFORTS OF THE Commonwealth Prime Ministers Conference to mediate in the Viet Nam conflict took all the headlines last week, reports from London Indicate that the meeting did get down to work towards the end on matters which are really more germane to this kind of gathering.

The necessity for achieving a Viet Nam settlement cannot be under-rated, of course, but in the leadership provided by British Prime Minister Harold Wilson in forming the Commonwealth peace mission there was a suspicion of cynicism that cannot be ignored. The fact is that Mr. Wilson very badly needed a showpiece with which to impress on a very large section of his own Labor Party that he was not slavishly following the United States London press runs toward the view that the peace mission plan was not put forward so much because Mr. Wilson had hopes for its success as because he needed to placate the left-wing section of his party. In any case, it has now been shelved-perhaps permanently.

At Partner's Side

Mr. Lesage has wasted little time in arraying himself in shining armour on side of his partner. Quebec has the right to intervene in the Supreme Court case affecting British Columbia; indeed, Ottawa has sought provincial co-operation n obtaining a judicial clarification. But Mr. Lesage, incensed by the latest issue of a federal exploratory permit in the gulf of St. Lawrence, has now joined Mr. Bennett in the demand that the reference be withdrawn.

The issue is starkly clear. Ottawa believes that a case involving so many complexities should be decided by the mpartial justices of the Supreme Court. This is what happened in the United States. There the judges decided in 1947 in favor of the federal government and, although Congress in the days of the Eisenhower administration vielded its miles from shore to the coastal states, federal authority beyond that limit was reasserted by the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act.

This latter point is important because there is now international recognition of Canada's right to exploit the seabed resources at any distance off our shores (limited only by similar rights of other countries). What has to be decided is whether this right belongs to the federal or to the provincial authority.

Mr. Bennett and Mr. Lesage are opposed to an impartial judicial settlement. They prefer a federal-provincial conference in which it may be possible to array the majority, or at least the most powerful, of the provinces against Ottawa. There are always many issues between the two levels of government and the premiers undoubtedly foresee the possibility of package deals forced upon the federal government by back-stage coalitions built on the principle of you scratch my back, I'll scratch In judicial proceedings, they might win or lose but from a political confrontation they are almost bound win concessions even if they fail to achieve the totality of their demands

It was characteristic of the European axis that it frequently directed its attacks at persons in the opposing camp. There would be intimations that, if a certain minister was removed, the possibility of improved relations would emerge. This tactic sometimes achieved success but the sequel was never an accommodation; merely stiffer demands.

There is room for suspicion that Messrs. Bennett and Lesage are trying their hands at the same game. With jurisdiction in dispute, the federal govern-exploration permits. Latterly, provincial

cance to the timing of the latest federal permit; it resulted from a purely idministrative decision. But Mr. Lesage has a different version events. He took occasion in the Quebec house to point out that the permit was given by the minister (Mr. Laing) in the absence of the prime minister of Canada." This is an obvious attempt to drive a wedge between Mr. Laing his colleagues; an invitation to

Pearson to avoid trouble by repudiating his minister. Want Laing Out

There have been other attacks on Mr. Laing and their motivation is obvious. He is a strong and generally respected minister. He has never sought quarrels with the provinces but has consistently refused to sacrifice his principles to appease provincial governments. He may thus appear an obstacle to the attainment of various goals sought by the premiers. They would much prefer to deal with a flabby minister who could be pressured into buying peace at any price. Mr. Laing, characteristically, has declined to be drawn into arguments with Mr. Lesage. But with a single, non-provocative, observation he has exposed the emptiness of one of the Quebec threats. Mr. Lesage has vowed that he will seek an injunction against the company (Pan-American Petroleum Corporation of Calgary) to prevent it from using its permit and that the federal government will be named as co-respondent.

On this Mr. Laing has commented only: "I think his indication that he proposed to seek redress in the courts shows that he too recognizes that this matter is one for court settlement.

Precisely, Mr. Lesage and Mr. Bennett are beside themselves with indignation because the federal government is seekto put Ottawa in its place Mr. Lesage

The political play is, obviously, much more serious. In one breath Mr. Lesage denies that there is any "ganging up against Ottawa and in the next claims the support of the other provinces. He threatens to bring the matter up at the federalprovincial conference next month. He describes his efforts, by letter and telephone, to induce Mr. Pearson to with-draw the reference. He appeals to an alleged Nova Scotian precedent but despite the threat against Pan-American is plainly unwilling to have law and pre-cedents examined by the Supreme Court. This is plainly a pressure campaign directed generally at the federal government and specifically at one minister.
Mr. Lesage may, however, have been too obvious. The campaign is now in the open; the objective is clear; any gesture of appeasement would be self-advertising. It may be difficult to persuade Canadians generally that they should have more confidence in politicians than in the judges of the Supreme Court. This in reality is what Messrs. Bennett and Lesage are saying and the fact should be

monwealth trade hit the Commonwealth prime minister's conrence Thursday with all the force of a brick wall. According to Canadian sources, the British leader's only trade proposal was a vague suggestion that Commonwealth trade ministers be allowed to tag along to a scheduled meeting of Commonwelth finance min isters in Jamaica next September. The idea, it seems, is that the trade ministers themselves might then find a way of making good on Mr. Wilson's promise. Conference rules prevented the Canadian delegation from reporting the action of other members to the British proposal. But it is safe to conclude that the entire conference, including the Ca-nadians, was relieved to learn that Mr. Wilson was not going to put any one on for expanding trade. The Canadian view seemed to be that even bringing the Commonwealth trade inisters together could prove ticklish. Although the conference agreed in principle with the idea, it has to be remembered that any special Commonwealth trade arrangement—or even the attempt to start one—ran the risk of undermining the all-important general Agreement on Tarriffs and Trade

It was explained that GATT itself is experiencing rough weather. The only circumstances under which Canada would approve a Commonwealth trade initiative would, he if GATT were to break down. In the meantime, in the Canadian view, it was important that noth-

Mr. Wilson's suggestion was placed before the conference as part of a three-point program aimd at strengthening Commonwealth links. He also asked the of Commonwealth planning organizations with an eye to comparing notes and perhaps co-ordinating various national development programs.

Once again, the conference agreed in principle. But the Australian prime minister, Sir Robert Menzies, echoed a Canadian reservation when he said it is difficult for some national governments to attend such meetings without first entering into careful consultation with regional governments at home.

Mr. Wilson's third suggestion—was

for reactivating a now-defunct Common-wealth body charged with exchanging and co-ordinating information regarding aircraft development. Here again, the Canadian view was that there was already a natural exchange of important information in this field.

Mr. Wilson's ideas were not even every one at the conference the big news was still the ill-starred Viet Nam peace mission proposal,

China was forced to back down in the face of overwhelm-ing sentiment against the meeting of chiefs of state this week in the tense Algerian capital. BAR NEGRO

The Chinese reluctantly joined the other delegates in voting unanimously Saturday to JOHANNESBURG reschedule the meeting for Nov. 5 in Algiers. A pre-conference meeting of foreign ministers was set for Oct. 28.

The vote came a day after part of the conference building at the club Des Pin, 12 miles west of the city, was wrecked by a mysterious explosion. This and nightly demonstrations in Algiers against the ouster of President Ahmed Ben Bella prompted the delay.

(In Peking, the Communist party newspaper People's Daily, which since Ben Bella's downfall had told its readers the conference would proceed as scheduled, published a report of the postponement in the bottom righthand corner of front page. But along with other Chinese papers, the People's
